TALKING SENSE TO JURIES

"We wonder," says the Saturday Evening Post, "what would happen to American jurisprudence if lawyers were required to ad. dress themselves to the jury's intelligence, discussing the facts in the case with the same sense of responsibility that a judge has in discussing the law.

"Suppose lawyers discussed criminal cases to the jury with the same candor they employ on discussing their cases to their friends, saying nothing that they did not believe to be an honest interpretation of the evidence, instead of striving to provoke passion and prejudice, and lugging in every possible charlaten appeal to sentiment.

"Why should not na public prosecutor, as a public officer, just t forth his candid judgment of the facts and leave the rest to the by? Or why should counsel on the other side, being also in theory officer of justicefi use every trick to get a murderer clear?

Why, indeed? In a country where law was really "the perfecn of human reason," and court procedure relied solely on truth logic for the attainment of justice, things would be so handled. We are far from that ideal. Our jury trials are complicated ratorical duels, dealing with emotion more than with fact. So far ve we strayed from rational methods that most people accept the stem as natural and right. But slowly its absurdity is becoming parent. There may soon be a genuine demand for reform.

A beginning might easily be made along one of the lines sugested b ythe Saturday Evening Post. Public prosecutors might content themselves with setting forth the precise facts, as they see hem, in a disapassionate and judicial manner, thereby illustrating the dignity, sanity and righteousness of the state, and setting a good example to counsel for the defense.

The latter could hardly be expected to reform all at once; their clients would not think they were doing their duty or earning their fees if they negelected all emotional appeal. But little by little the idea might percolate through the legal profession and the general public. And when it did, our much abused jury system would begin to work as it was originally intended to.

BEHIND THE TIMES

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association, neatly and accurately classifies the little group of militants at Washington. Protesting that the big, sane majority of suffragists should not be confused with the White House pickets, she says:

"Every reform passes through three phases-agitation, argu-good peace. ment and surrender.

"We have passed through the first two phases and entered the third. The pickets' mistake is that they are trying to work in the first stage, agitation, which was passed through two generations ago. We stand on the threshold of victory, and the only effect of the pickets' action is to confuse the public mind."

That ought to hold the militants for a while. If it once soaks in. to their consciousness that, instead of being ultra-modern as they magine, they are really "two generations" behind the times, they may stop their silly picketing and catch up with the procession.

It's quite true that there isn't any more need of agitation, of spectacular action to call attention to woman suffrage. The big majority of Americans are convinced that suffrage is desirable and inevitable, and are prepared to yield. Speaking in general, all that is needed on the part of suffrage workers is enough intelligence and tact to let male voters surrender without a sense of compulsion or humilia-

IS LABOR DOING ITS BIT?

It is not only in shipyards but on railroads, at munitions works, in all manner of industrial and commercial activity, that patriotic co-operation of labor with employers and public authorities, is very seriously needed. There could hardly be any more important kind of real service to the country. Compilments and expressions of faith may stimulate it, but when we get at real facts the lack of it very often appears to be the chief obstacle. This party to the triple co-operation is the one hardest to spur up to its part in the task. It is so on railroads in many cases, at terminals, in warehouses, on docks and elsewhere. Wages are high, but workmen are apt to take advantage and work in a leisure way and lie off, to the vexation of employers who cannot discharge them and fill their places. This is he cause, more than any other, of the delay of trains, the glut of ations and warehouses and apparently of frequent and considerde loss and disappearance of goods of various kinds. It is a ques. n whether labor, especially when organized, is really doing its full t either patriotically or honesty. It is to be hoped that it will stimulated by appeal as well as by costly favor.-N. Y. Journal

Pulled By President Weeghman, o Chicago Cubs, When He Purchases Alexander and Killifer, Moran's Great Battery.

New York, December 11-One of the biggest deals in the history of baseball was the culminating feature of today's session of the annual meeting of the National League. Grover Cleveland Alexander, the star pitcher of the Philadelphia Nationals, and his battery mate, William Killifer, were sold to the Chicago National League Club. Alexander has only one rival among baseball pitchers, Walter Only a few days left in which to do Johnson, of the Washington Americans. Killifer is rated among the best catchers in baseball and did more acual work than any other catcher in paseball last season

Neither Presiddent Weeghman, of Chicago, nor Presiddent Baker, of the Philadedlphia club, would name the purchase price, though Weeghn an said it was the biggest price ever paid for two big league players. The figures were estimated between $50,-000 ando $60,000. The Chicago club threw in Pitcher Mike Prendergast and Catcher Dilhoefer to clinch the President Weeghman was elated over the deal. "It is the first move men as they become of age is pro- race," he said. > Baker excused the deal on the grounds that it was strictly a business affair. He said that while Alexandder still was a great pitcher, he was slipping a little and was no longfeel it was able to carry any $12,000 salaried players on its payroll. As for Killifer, he said that player had informed him last fall he would not play for the Philadelphia Club again, and that, it was necessary to get rid of him.

Positive—Convincing Proof

Many so-called remedies for anaemia are only so in name. Their makers are afraid to prove their claims by telling what their medicines contain.

The only way to be honest with the people is to let them know what they are paying for. Here is the Vinol formula. When the doctor knows what a medicine contains, it ceases to be a "patent" medicine.

P. Cod Liver and Beef Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptonates, Iron and Ammonium Citrate, Lime and Soda Glycerophosphates, Cascarin.

phosphates, Cascarin.

Any doctor will tell you that the ingredients of Vinol, as named above, will enrich the blood and banish anaemia and create strength. When the blood is pure and rich and red, the body is strong and robust.

You can prove this at our expense because your money will be returned if Vinol does not improve your health.
